

Water Vulnerability: Roles

You are... A grandmother living in a displacement camp in DR Congo because of war. There is only one water pump for the whole camp.	You are... A young woman who has fled her home in Sudan because of war and is hiding in the wilderness. You have to forage for food and water.
You are... A woman living in a town in Nepal with no pipes to supply water. You and your children have to use water from the nearby river and recently they have fallen ill.	You are... A disabled man from a minority ethnic group living in a Bolivian village. Your home has running water. However, you have no income or support and you need a wheelchair to get around.
You are... An elderly woman living in a small town in England. You struggle to turn on taps and wash yourself but you receive support from a part-time carer.	You are... An American businessman living in Indonesia. Your home is in a large city and you are paid a very high salary.
You are... A single teacher living in rural Wales.	You are... The President of Uganda.

You are... A mother in a small settlement in Mongolia. The land does not produce much food, but your community is working together to grow enough crops for everyone.	You are... A police officer in a small town in Mexico. The local infrastructure is very old and does not work properly but the government says it will improve it soon.
You are... A young child in China. You live in an industrial city, near a large factory that pumps waste into the nearby river.	You are... A singer from Brazil. You grew up in a slum but now you are famous throughout South America.
You are... A worker in Vietnam. You have recently lost your home and family because of huge floods.	You are... A banker from Germany. You travel all over the world for your job, always staying in hotels.
You are... A maize farmer in Kenya. The region where you live is suffering from a long drought and it is becoming harder to grow crops.	You are... A 12 year old girl living in Malawi, taken out of school because your mother needs help collecting water and wood. The walk to the well takes almost an hour.
You are... The President of the USA.	You are... A doctor in a city in Japan. You are well respected and get a lot of work.